Directions for the questions 35-40. Read the passages carefully and answer the questions.

Much has been said and written about the declining numbers of and disappointing lack of diversity among American college students majoring in engineering. Among the factors cited to explain this phenomenon are the lack of exposure of high school students to the very idea of engineering and the fact that many have insufficient mathematics and science background to gain entrance to engineering school, even if they do identify the profession as a possible career. This is unfortunate, for the ideas of engineering should be integrated into the curricula not only of high schools but also of middle and primary schools. Our children are being done a disservice by not being exposed properly throughout their education to engineering activities identified as such. After all, even pre-school children have the prerequisites in their play for appreciating exactly what engineering is: design. Indeed, design is everywhere around them throughout their school day, even in their before-school and after-school activities. It need only be pointed out to them that they are designing something, and therefore being engineers of sorts, in virtually everything that they do.

36. The writer of the passage feels strongly that

- A) children should be involved in engineering activities at an early age
- B) many children are being unfairly directed into a career in engineering
- C) the mathematics and science courses in schools need to be modernized
- D) university engineering courses ought to be upgraded
- E) the education of pre-school children is being given too much importance

37. The writer points out that children can, at a very early age.....

- B) develop an interest in scientific matters
- C) make up their minds to study engineering at university
- D) learn something about the basis of engineering, which is design
- E) be influenced by their school environment

- A) is becoming less and less popular as a field of study among university students
- B) is only suitable for highly intelligent students
- C) is a complicated subject only suitable for really mature students
- D) has become one of the most popular fields of study at American universities
- E) requires many years of training prior to qualification

39-Among the reasons given in the passage for the decline in the numbers of engineering students is that.....

- A) the American schools still follow out-dated curricula
- B) university entrance requirements are far too demanding
- C) it is generally recognized as one of the most difficult of all the courses
- D) engineering in the US is not considered to be a competitive field of study
- E) many of them fail to acquire an adequate knowledge of mathematics and science at high schools
